ARMISTICE-1918

Across the 25-year span from November, 1918, to November, 1943, the U. S. has seen war, prosperity, the laxy of peacetime, then war again and now attack. Today our observance of Armistice Day is a bitter reminder that the great World War did not end in 1918, and presents an opportunity to resolve that this conflict be brought to a permanent conclusion.

Bricker's Entry in '44 Race May Result in General Scramble

THE WAR TODAY
By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Ohio Governor First to Announce Entry for Presidency

Washington, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The 1944 presidential race had its first public entry today—the name of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for the Republican nomination—and political observers looked for the recent elections to encourage others so to declare themselves.

Bricker's announcement in Chicago yesterday that he would enter Ohio's presidential primary May 9 was the first such declaration to come from a dozen possible candidates mentioned in both parties and the first from among the three most prominently discussed Republican possibilities. The other two Republicans are Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Bricker's friends here declared he was "really out" for the presidential banner and not merely the first "favorite son" in a stop-Willkie movement. But supporters of other candidates said his statement could be construed as being only of the "favorite son" variety unless and until Bricker decided

Charge Japs at Tule Lake Camp Have Been Making Knives, Bombs

Tule Lake, Calif., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Two national investigations were focused today on the Tule Lake segregation center where, witnesses testified, the 16,000 disloyal Japanese internees had been making bombs and knives.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was ordered, by Attorney General Francis Biddle to begin an immediate study of last week's disturbances, and Rep. Claire Engle (D-Calif.) said he would ask the Dies committee for a "full and formal" probe of the Tule Lake situation as it existed under control of the War Relocation Authority.

The Army was called in to quiet matters a week ago.

A new disturbance at the center occurred yesterday. Hundreds of Japanese stopped work in the warehouses and complained that they were not being allowed to choose their own work leaders.

The last 370 Japanese of proved loyalty to the United States were removed from Tule Lake by train last night, and sent to WRA camps in Utah, Idaho, Colorado and Arkansas.

Only those of admitted or suspected allegiance to Japan—about 15,000—remain.

The Flag

From The Dixon Evening Telegraph Saturday, Nov. 10, 1918.

Here's to the red of it—
There's not a thread of it,
No, nor a shred of it
In all the spread if it
From foot to head,
But heroes bled for it.
Faced steel and lead for it,
Bathing it red.

Here's to the white of it—
Thrilled by the sight of it,
Who knows the right of it,
But feel the might of it.
This is the day and night;
Womanhood's dare for it;
Manhood's prayer for it;
Purity's prayer for it,
Keeps it so white.

Here's to the blue of it—
Heavenly view of it,
Star spangled hue of it,
Honesty's due for it,
Constant and true.
Here's to the whole of it;
Star, stripes and pole of it,
Red, white and blue.

Technique of Last Gallant Battle of Old Destroyer Told

Officers Tell Details of Death Fight of 20-Year-Old Borie

Washington, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The knock-down, drag-out fighting technique of the old destroyer Borie was credited by the Navy today with helping her task force sink "more submarines than any team in naval history."

The Navy did not disclose the totals but it is probable that the planes and destroyers accompanying the baby flat top Card disposed of about a dozen U-boats.

The 20-year-old Borie finally went to the bottom herself during a heavy storm, taking two U-boats with her.

For this and other achievements the task force as a whole now may wear a presidential unit citation—first such award ever made to a carrier group for anti-submarine work.

Actually there probably will be not one but several almost simultaneous assaults launched in both Europe and Asia. The idea will be to bevel the enemy on as many fronts as possible at the same time—to weaken him by dividing his forces. Hitler and Hirohito will be as busy as hounds dogs with fleas.

Drastic Changes in Tax Bill Demanded

Washington, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Prospects of lively house floor debate on wartime taxes were intensified today as the CIO and seven other organizations demanded drastic changes in the $2,250,000,000 revenue bill framed by the ways and means committee.

In a message to members of congress specific proposals were made by CIO President Philip Murray and representatives of the National Farmers Union, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Women's Trade Union League of America, League of Women Shoppers, National Lawyers Guild and Consumers Union.

They included:

(1) Increased taxes on personal incomes above $3,000, a $25,000 ceiling on wartime income, after taxes, a boost in the corporate income rate from 40 to at least 50 per cent.

(2) Elimination of the income levies on low income substituted by the committee for the Victory Tax.

(3) Higher personal exemptions, elimination of the option to compute excess corporation profits on the average earnings method.

(4) Mandatory joint return by husband and wife and taxation of government securities.

(5) Increased rates and lowered exemptions for estimates and gifts.

Britain's Part in Lease-Lend Aid is Revealed in Paper

Over Billion Dollars Worth of Assistance-in-Reverse to U. S.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The British announced today that they have furnished more than one billion dollars worth of reverse lease-lend assistance to the United States and said the scope of their aid is now being broadened to include raw materials and bulk food stuffs from both the United Kingdom and the colonies.

Their greatest assistance, for which specific figures were given only to last June 30, has been in supplying base facilities, barracks, hospitals and the like for American air and land forces based in the British Isles.

Up to that time the total of mutual aid, as British lease-lend activities are called, amounted to $871,000,000 to the United States and $716,000,000 to Russia.

These figures were contained in a British "white paper" released here and in London at the time of its presentation to Parliament. This is the first detailed report of Britain's assistance to other United Nations.

It was accompanied by an official British information service summary which stated that at present "Britain's cash expenditures under mutual aid totals well over a billion dollars for United States forces, and more than a billion and a half dollars to Russia and other allies."

Belief Not Understood

Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Anderson, on presenting the report to the House of Commons, stated that Britain is "now furnishing huge supplies without payment and indeed without calculation" to the allies and expressed belief that "the vast extent of mutual aid which we are furnishing is not understood in this country, far less abroad."

"It is only in a very limited sense," he said, "that this white paper introduces the money sign and to those, if there are any, who wish to judge these matters as a business deal, the effect is to underestimate the real material cost that falls upon us. I should have preferred not to have introduced the money sign even partially into the story."

The British report does not include the reverse lease-lend supplied by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, which have separate assistance agreements with the United States.

Figures Not Complete

The report was further qualified with the assertion that the figures are not complete and that many of the foods and services furnished to American armed forces in various parts of the world cannot be measured in money terms, either because strict accounts have not been kept or because no accurate value can be placed upon them.

In the latter category the white paper places information and experience gained in battle and in research about the performance of military equipment and the strong and weak points of both enemy and allied tactics and weapons. Such information, it was stated, aided in the development of the Sherman tank and the Flying Fortress bomber.

"This is not a service which can be valued in money," the report said, "but it has cost more in blood and effort than most aid."

While Britain's reverse lease-lend to the United States has consisted chiefly of camp installations and airfields in the United Kingdom, military supplies, food, airplanes and naval services and shipping services, the aid to Russia, included 4,690 aircraft and spare parts.

Of raw materials and bulk supplies the official report said that the United States formerly paid for them in dollars to provide the British with funds needed "to meet our heavy liabilities on pre-lease-lease armament contracts in the United States, which were not covered by lease-lease."

Contracts Fulfilled

"But now that those contracts are largely fulfilled," the report continued, "and in furtherance of the general pooling of (United Nations) resources, His Majesty's government have recently decided reciprocal aid to raw materials and foodstuffs purchased by the government of the United States from the United Kingdom and the colonial empire which would thus be made available on terms analogous to lease-lease."

"In addition, His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom will defray the cost of British shipping services for these materials.

German Strength Greater Now Than at Start of Fight

Washington, Nov. 11—(AP)—Germany's war strength is greater today than in 1939 and Japan still has a mighty wallop poised over Asia, a high-ranking U. S. Army chieftain was quoted as saying today.

The statement was made by Rep. Outland (D-Calif.) who said he was quoting Major General George V. Strong, chief of the Army's military intelligence division, with the general's permission.

Outland, avowedly anxious to prick any bubbles of U. S. optimism over the war task ahead, declared that Strong told a secret congressional session several weeks ago that:

Germany

1. The German army has approximately three times as many combat divisions in the field today as it had when the attack on Poland began four years ago.

2. The Germans now have 300 well-trained divisions. This year alone they reformed or re-equipped or raised more than 60 new divisions, each of which has approximately 600 machine guns and 300 heavier weapons.

3. The Reich raised and equipped armored, motorized, and infantry divisions to replace each of the 20 lost at Stalingrad last winter.

4. The Luftwaffe is larger now than it was in 1939.

5. The number of workers employed in war industries in Nazi-dominated territory has risen from 23,000,000 at the outset of the war to 35,000,000 now. The weapons they are making are in some cases better than any which the United Nations yet have.

6. There is nothing in the German economic picture to justify confidence in the immediate downfall of the Nazi structure. For example, German food rations today are higher in caloric content than they were at the outbreak of hostilities.

Company Charges

1. The Japanese still have some 2,000,000 men of military age who have not yet been called to the colors, and they have nearly as many more in the 17-20 year age group who are not now subject to the draft.

2. In the air, Japanese strength is on the up-grade. The enemy has not only replaced the planes lost in combat but is improving both the quantity and quality of its air force. The pilot training program has been stepped up and is keeping pace with an accelerated production schedule.

Company charges that the strike "was linked to a CIO attempt to take over management" of the plant, were described last night by Glenn Brayton, president of Local 5, United Automobile Workers (CIO), as "a smoke screen designed to cover up its own inefficiency."

The Ford Motor Company spokesman said work had been resumed and that a conference between company and union representatives was arranged for this morning. The die setters, he said, demanded reclassification as die setters only, instead of die setters and press operators.

Company charges that the strike "was linked to a CIO attempt to take over management" of the plant, were described last night by Glenn Brayton, president of Local 5, United Automobile Workers (CIO), as "a smoke screen designed to cover up its own inefficiency."

The Ford officials' statement asserted that "for months union officials have been 'needling' the war department and the government with criticism of Willow Run management and operation. They suggested more than once that management of the plant be given to a committee including representatives of the union and Army officials."

Mission at St. Anne's Church Starts Sunday

Starting Sunday morning at both masses at 8 and 10:30 a. m., Rev. Fr. Gerald Kenneady, of the Order of Mary Immaculate of New York, well known missionary father, will preach his first Sunday's introductory sermons which will mark the opening of a week's mission at St. Anne's Catholic church. The mission will open Sunday, Nov. 14, and will continue through Sunday, Nov. 21 with evening devotions at 7:30 on the closing evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend, Catholics as well as members of all other denominations, who will be interested in the presentation of the Catholic doctrines and religion in general as explained by a master missionary and an eloquent pupil of the modern school. Missionary devotions will be conducted each evening at 7:30 and each morning at 6 o'clock and 7:30 during the week days. The pastor of St. Anne's parish, Rev. Fr. R. L. French, extends a hearty welcome and a strong appeal to the public to join in making the mission a success.

Four-Day Weekend of Activity Faces Illinois Prep Teams

Chicago, Nov. 11.—(AP)—All is scarcely quiet on the Illinois prep football front this Armistice Day, and it's just the start of a four-day week-end of heavy gridiron activity as the high school races near their showdown.

As noisy an occasion as could be arranged to mar the peacefulness of this November 11 is the Taylorville-Champaign battle which matches the undefeated, eight-game winning Tornadoes against the unbeaten but once-tied Champaign Maroons, who are idling along hoping someone will spill Decatur and hand them the Big Twelve title.

Elsewhere today Newman and Bement, both unbeaten in seven games, played Villa Grove and Monticello, six-game winner Carlinville met Benld and five-game victor Girard opposed Gillespie.

Tomorrow and Saturday bring continued activity. Of the state's undefeated elevens, East St. Louis plays Madison, Chicago Phillips meets Chicago Amundsen, Belleville clashes with Granite City, and Marquette Alton engages St. Louis Chaminade. Others of the select 16 have ended their campaigns.

This was the general picture of activity around the state:

Southwest Conference—Leading East St. Louis and Belleville, still waiting for their important Thanksgiving Day title clash, meet Madison and Granite City, each after its ninth win.

Big Twelve—Decatur tries to stay in the running for the league title against Bloomington Saturday, with another important game with Springfield following.

Reawance at Princeton

Big Eight—West Rockford is at East Aurora, West Aurora at East Rockford, and LaSalle-Peru at Freeport.

Big Seven—West Frankfort

The dog, inseparable from Higgins since he was a child, suffered a stroke.

Grange for Complete Elimination of Farm Price Control by U. S.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 11.—Demands for the complete elimination of governmental controls over farm prices developed at the annual convention of the National Grange today as a third of the 135 resolutions introduced by delegates condemned government food subsidies.

Not a single resolution, convention officials said, favored the Roosevelt administration's plan to hold down food prices through the use of subsidies to producers.

The sentiment against the administration's programs was so sharp that some of the Grange leaders expressed concern lest the convention insist on taking a stand against all price controls.

"I hope," said Albert S. Goss,

National Master of the organization, "that the Grange doesn't go that far. It is essential that we have some controls if serious inflation is to be averted."

REPAID—WITH INTEREST

Spokane, Wash.—Detectives Mike Vecchio and Harry Davenport rounded up two teen-age boys who admitted looting rabbit hutches.

For two hours Vecchio and Davenport drove around town, returning to owners the bunnies the boys had given them.

But the boys must have had the rabbits in their possession quite a little while.

The detectives found they had more rabbits than owners.

Walton

By Anna J. McCoy

The orphanage truck will call at Saint Mary's parish, Walton, on Saturday, Nov. 13, to collect food donations for Saint Vincent's orphanage at Freeport.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lauer of Oregon.

Miss Ruth Oester has resigned her position at Sterling and is now employed at the Lorene Beauty Shop in Dixon.

Mrs. Louis Shannon of Amboy and son Ned and daughter Catherine Anne spent Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Lena Morrissey.

Mrs. Peter McCoy spent Thursday in Amboy at the P. H. Morrissey and Harold Lawler home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reeser of Rock Falls spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reeser and family. Mr. Reeser is in the service of the U. S. in the Navy department.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCoy spent Sunday in Aurora at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bauerman. Miss Hazel McCoy returned home with them. Mrs. Bauerman who has been ill is much better.

Rosemary Blackburn spent the week end at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Dunphy.

Mrs. Robert O'Bryant of Dixon was a caller in Walton Sunday.

The Garfieldian of South Chicago carries the following item:

"Mrs. Anna Kane of 4925 Quincy street, for the past 19 years a matron of the Commonwealth Edison Company, recently was retired on a pension. She received a wrist watch from the employees in her department as a parting remembrance and the women of the company presented her with a $50 war bond.

"Born in County Cavan, Ireland, Mrs. Kane came to this country as a young girl and was married in 1896. After her husband's death she worked for a time at the Cook County hospital as an attendant. She entered the employ of the Commonwealth Edison Company in 1923. Mrs. Kane makes her home with her sister, Miss Etta Finegan, who is employed with the Board of Education. Miss Finegan was employed at Marshall Field's for 30 years before entering the employ of the Board of Education."

Both these ladies are cousins of Mrs. P. H. Dunphy and Anna J. McCoy.

The many friends of P. H. Morrissey will be glad to know that he is feeling much better. Mr. Morrissey celebrated his 86th birthday November 1, and his many friends hope he will celebrate many more birthdays. Mr. Morrissey lived in this vicinity many years before moving to Amboy.

WALKIE-TALKIE?

Kansas City—(AP)—A man walked into a bakery and asked for dollar bills for $7 in small change.

Mrs. Walter Browning, another customer, went into action. Before she finished, the man had added $11.75 to his handful of change—and signed for a war bond.

Her friends, she acknowledged, have a name for her—"The Walking Bond Booth." Her sales total over $150,000.

the large portion of it he devoted to threatening his own people about what he would do to them if they give in, despite him.

A man whom I believe is the best judge in the stock market does not believe the Nazis can last in the face of these prospects more than 60 or 90 days more, and I would not doubt but what his guess might prove correct. I know of a manager of a Fifth avenue hotel who has been receiving letters from people asking for reservations for a Victory parade which has not even been scheduled or considered. That kind of guessing costs less money than the stock market and is more indefinite.

It is true that some officials will speak of a costly campaign of invasion to come in 1944, but they generally also mention "decisive events" which they say are at hand. They are likewise on sound military ground, even if events make them seem unreasonable. A general naturally must measure war prospects upon his own plans rather than in unexpected capitulation of an enemy.

For some time also an unhappy situation has prevailed from the belief of certain officials that the long war prospects had to be stressed to keep the people working at utmost pitch. This belief carried a questionable inference, not only of the patriotism of the people, but a downright underestimate of their desire to win this war and a woeful miscalculation of their ability to understand events themselves. It was both unjustified and unwise. Facts are always the best propaganda.

FIREMAN, SAVE MY LEG

New York—(AP)—Firemen fought their way through clouds of smoke to rescue one-legged Vladislaw Michalowski, 58, trapped in a blazing tenement.

Michalowski refused to budget without his wooden leg.

The soldier reported his curiosity to an officer who was unable to find any of the Japs. He ordered it dynamited and "when the tree fell 26 Japs rolled out and with them a complete radio field outfit," Major Scherer said. St. Louis, Nov. 11—(AP)—How the curiosity of an American soldier, puzzled over Japanese climbing a tree and not coming down, resulted in the destruction of an observation post and the death of 26 Nipponese was related by Maj. Edward C. Scherer, 30, Shawnee town, Ill., reconnaissance officer.

The soldier reported his curiosity to an officer who was unable to find any of the Japs. He ordered it dynamited and "when the tree fell 26 Japs rolled out and with them a complete radio field outfit," Major Scherer said. "The Japanese had hollowed out the trunk and fitted it with bunks and everything needed for a complete barracks."

The tree was a banyan that grows by spreading out aerial shoots which grow into the ground and eventually take on the appearance of a tangled grove. Some banyans reach diameters exceeding 100 feet.

A Thought for Today

Yet if thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul.—Ezekiel 3:19.

Everywhere the human soul stands between a hemisphere of light and another of darkness; on the confines of two everlasting hostile empires, Necessity and Free-will.—Carlyle

Twenty-Five Years

Today we know that the war which ended 25 years ago is still going on. We can see more clearly than ever, in the perspective that the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, was just that. We can fit together the various eruptions—boundary disputes, revolution, aggression, civil war—that disturbed the uneasy surface of that armistice until four years ago, the war broke out again with renewed ferocity.

Seen in this perspective, all the tears, the profound relief, the hysterical joy, the prayerful thanksgiving of Nov. 11, 1918, may seem a little pathetic. But they were sincere and admirable. We went to war in 1917 on a wave of idealism. We fought for slogans and believed in them: a war to end war and a world safe for democracy. The idealism was more than public emotion. It was the policy of our government. Idealism moved a president to try to persuade us into the League of Nations. We did not follow and the league went on without us—accomplishing many things failing utterly in the crises.

But we tried to do our best for world peace. We were generous and solicitous. We were kind to our enemies. We were patient with our recent Allies when they called us Uncle Shylock. We called disarmament conferences and proposed plans outside the league for enduring peace.

This country and its former Allies condemned war as an international policy. The world had learned its lesson in 1914-18; it knew that war was brutal and unthinkable. France sat behind her mountains and her Maginot Line and England sat behind her Channel, loathing war so much that they would not look while Germany and Italy prepared for it at home, and rehearsed it in Ethiopia and Spain. We sat between our oceans, thinking that if we hated war hard enough, it would not come.

The next Armistice Day will not find us in a 1918 mood. Perhaps we shall be even more truly thankful, but we shall certainly be less emotional. The American mind today is cynical, compared with that of 25 years ago. And that is all to the good. Next Armistice Day we shall know that the present conflict was only a dreadful, bloody, devastating preliminary to another attempt to build a structure for enduring peace.

We are beginning now, with greater realism and greater wisdom, to draw plans for that structure. This time we know that peace cannot be placed within a shrine, but must be guarded by a stout fortress. It must be built to withstand the problems and differences that will strain the present alliance of fighting nations. We know, all of us, that the end of the shooting and bombing will not mean the return of tranquility. Already old quarrels and new disputes are breaking above the surface of the general sea of troubles. And they will not grow less intense when the fighting stops.

Today we possess the knowledge, painfully acquired, of 25 years' short-sightedness and mistakes. It is bitter knowledge. But because we have it, it may be that 25 years after the next Armistice Day we shall have done a better job.

Saving American Lives

When American forces landed in North Africa last year they stepped into a politico-military muddle that generated excitement and hard words on both sides of the Atlantic. The mixup with the French factions was only a preview of what can be expected when fighting ceases in Europe.

The promotion of Italy from half-hearted enemy to co-belligerent certainly was welcomed by a great majority of her people, but it made no hit with the neighbors. The French, still smarting from the stab in the back, are scornfully resentful. Both the Emperor Haile Selassie and the Greek government in exile, remembering the brutal and unwarranted invasion of their countries, have protested, with the Greek cabinet resigning in a body. Yugoslavia is said to fear, rightly or wrongly, that Marshal Badoglio's surrender will be rewarded with territory across the Adriatic, and that Count Carlo Sforza, the anti-fascist patriot, brought along some expansionistic notions on his return from American exile.

And take a look at Italy herself. She is a state without a country. Part of her army and many of her civilians are held prisoner by her former ally, Germany. Another sizeable segment of her soldiery is in the prison camps of her almost-ally, the United States.

Fascism is officially dead, though conceivably die-hards are loyal to Mussolini's puppet 'Fascist Republican State,' the cynical facade of nazi occupation. Fascism is dead, but communism is still almost as much of a bogey as when Mussolini was in the driver's seat.

Since an American is bossing the Italian military campaign, the responsibility for straightening out this muddle may be accounted ours. And efforts thus far might be considered as temporizing and inept—unless we recall Secretary of State Hull's basic aim in such circumstances, as stated after his much-criticized dealings with the Vichy elements in North Africa.

That aim is the saving of American lives, at any price. It is an aim with which few will wish to quarrel. It is not the state department's intention to improvise treatment for ancient political sores or fresh wounds at the cost of greater casualties. European feuds and differences can wait for settlement till the shooting is over. And there is no doubt but that work toward such settlement already is going on among the Big Three of the United Nations.

Uncle Sam: No. 1 Publisher

The U. S. government now prints more newspapers, magazines and other periodicals than all the private publishers of any single state put together, according to a recent compilation. The survey showed that federal employees now edit:

Four dailies.

Eight weeklies.

Eight bi-weeklies.

One hundred and ten monthlies.

Fifteen quarterlies.

Unnumbered other periodicals either issued irregularly throughout the year, are regularly during certain seasons of the year.

The government periodicals range in size from that of a typical weekly newspaper to larger sized, slick paper magazine, and, so far, no attempt has been made to reduce Uncle Sam's periodicals in size, although private publishers have suffered what amounts to a 15 per cent cut in paper since last year.

The reporter who made the compilation says he is sure he did not find all of Uncle Sam's publications. There are 2,241 government agencies today, he pointed out, and it would take him a full year to check with all of them.

"And there are new ones starting up all the time," he explained. "When a government administrator wants to start a new publication, he just starts it. But private publishers have to go through a whale of a lot of red tape to start a new publication these days."

Finally a train had reason to stop, look and listen. A bear on the track delayed a freight in Alaska.

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHT, 1943.
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant and joins the Hall household, Nancy Hall, smiling and blushing, hastened by his attentions, but cannot forget Drew Warner. Mrs. Hall, however, is the courageous wealthy Frank King. Edgars, however, seems more interested in the other daughter, Emily, a visiting nurse intent on her job. He takes her to lunch.

NOTHING SERIOUS

CHAPTER X
THE Lobster Pot was a ramshackle shack at the end of a long wharf. Inside it was clean and polished and simple. Rough wooden tables, paper napkins, clam shells for ash trays and superb sea food.

Frank was talking about New York, where he'd spent some time before coming home. The plays he'd seen, the people he'd met. Emily stirred her coffee and listened idly. It was all very far removed from her world.

He asked, once, "You really like your work?" "Very much."

"You must, or you wouldn't do it," he mused. "Hard to think of you—going into the kind of houses you—" He shrugged, with repulsion—"spending your days in dirt and disease and—"

"It's not all dirt," she said, "you don't understand the work, do you? We go into a great many very nice homes. Frank." In which the people can't afford to pay for trained or practical nurses, or if they have afforded them for a time we take over where they leave off, after they've gone and there's no longer need for twenty-four or even twelve-hour duty. These people pay us, you know, which enables us to take care of the people who can't pay."

"Oh, sure, I understand. But you don't have any good times, you don't have any fun," he insisted, looking at her, the clean line of chin and cheek, the dark hair, a little rumpled.

She said, laughing, "I have plenty. Are you afraid of catching something? Because I did a very good scrub up before we sat down at the table."

"Don't be silly," he said shortly. He added, "Well, perhaps I am afraid of catching—"

He halted, his eyes warned her, but she persisted, nevertheless.

"What—?"

"Cold," he said, grinning. "Ice cold. Or—aren't you . . . ?"

"This," said Emily, severely, "is a pretty idiotic conversation."

"It's important," he assured her, "you're just afraid of it, you don't know where it's leading or, if you do, you're scared. Nancy would know all the answers. You're out of practice. Tell me, what are my chances?"

She opened her mouth and Frank said quickly,

"She looked at her watch. "Sorry, time I moved along," she said.

Frank beckoned the waiter, paid the check, overstepped. He said,

"Tomorrow night, then. And where can I take you now?"

"I'll have to get my calls first," she gathered her things together, said, rising. "Don't wait, Frank, please, and thanks, it's been fun," and went toward the telephone booth.

The rest of the afternoon was routine, a sunburn case, two mild cases of flu, a convalescent.

She called the office in the middle of the afternoon and Miss Ainsing reported that Doctor Thompson wished a nurse to go to 18 Cedar Court, at once, if possible.

Emily said, "You're kidding."

"No. Perhaps," she added, "I haven't had time."

He said, incredulous. "You've lived here all your life, you've been to college and had your hospital training and you can sit there and tell me . . ."

"Well, nothing serious," she said.

"I don't believe it."

Emily thought . . . the Harvard boy who had been her roommate's brother—that was a time, six . . .

months of feverish excitement, expectancy, letters, telegrams, telephone calls. . . . The assistant professor of English in her senior year. He had wanted to marry her. She hadn't been in love with him. The intern—she wondered fleetly if Jim ever heard from him, they had been good friends at the hospital. She had thought herself in love with him for about two months. That hadn't lasted either. She shook her head, again, No, nothing serious.

Except Jim.

But that was absurd, she knew Jim, she liked him, she had been glad to see him again. There'd been nothing between them at the hospital, nothing at all. The few times they'd gone out together they'd talked hospital all the time, between dances. They liked and respected one another. And she'd been glad when he came to Cranberry, when he suddenly turned up again, and became closely associated with her life. Prenuptial Party for Walnut Girl

Miss Caryl Schrader of Walnut was the honoree at a pre-nuptial shower Monday evening, when six aunts, Mrs. George Schrader, Mrs. Dale Gloden, Mrs. George Cameron, Mrs. Gus Schrader, Mrs. Fred Schrader and Mrs. Adolph Schrader, were hostesses to 60 relatives and friends at the George Schrader home. The chosen colors of the bride-to-be, yellow and white, were used in the decorations and the flowers were yellow and white chrysanthemums.

A short program was given with the following numbers: Piano selection, Mrs. Fern Gallentine; reading, "My Wife," Mrs. Melvin Durham; songs, "Me and My Gal," and an encore, Marilyn Gallentine; playlet, "Lover's Errand," Mrs. Clifford Larkin and Mrs. Dale Gloden.

Lovely gifts were presented to the bride-to-be at a decorated table, over which hung a yellow and white parasol, with yellow and white hearts, labeled Caryl and Owen.

Refreshments were served with the appointments being in yellow and white. Out of town guests were: Chester Hurst and daughters, Leora and Geraldine, Mrs. Virgil Hurst and Mrs. Charles Schmidt of Manlius.

YOUNG KAREN KRUG HAS 3RD BIRTHDAY

SORORITY PLEDGE

Louis Schumm Is Wed to Eastern Girl on Nov. 6

Miss Ruth E. Wachter, daughter of Edward H. Wachter, 309 Freeport road, Kensington, Pa., and Louis W. Schumm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Schumm, Sr., Dixon, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, Nov. 6, at an impressive ceremony in the United Presbyterian church in Kensington. The Rev. J. C. Pinkerton, D. D., read the single ring ceremony at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon before an altar decorated with eustoma, bamboo, palms and ferns.

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. D. Chester Wyant, cousin of the bride, played a pre-nuptial recital of organ selections including "Intermezzo," Tschaikowski's "Concert No. 1" and Schubert's "Serenade." Miss Margaret Johnston sang Grieg's "I Love You" and "If I Could tell You" by Firestone.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory faille gown cut with marquisette yoke.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of orange blossoms and she wore a lavalier which belonged to her mother. The bride carried a bouquet of white starlight roses.

Mrs. W. C. Endean, Jr., who was her sister's only attendant, appeared in a light blue gown fashioned with satin bodice and tulle skirt. She wore corsage of pink roses in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink briarcliff roses.

Russell Smith served as best man, and ushers included Vernon Reike and Wilbert Lawler.

A reception at Hill Crest Country club followed the church rites.

The bridal table at the club was decorated with tall white candles in crystal holders flanking a centerpiece of fall flowers, orchids and yellow pom poms.

The bridal couple left for a week's wedding trip to Cincinnati and Columbus, O. For traveling, the new Mrs. Schumm wore a red wool dress combined with coffee brown accessories, a corsage of red and white roses, and a gold bracelet set with zircons, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Schumm will return Sunday, November 14, to reside in Kensington. Mrs. Schumm received her schooling at Grove City college where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Mr. Schumm, who is employed by the Aluminum company in Kensington, is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is affiliated with Sigma Pi.

Out-of-town guests included

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schumm, Sr., who left Dixon the last of October to visit in Ohio before attending the wedding.

Bricker's Entry in to enter other state primaries or to forego seeking a fourth term as governor.

Willkie, who has been pictured as confident of winning another nomination in 1944, would not comment on the Bricker move, but his supporters here did not appear to be worried. They said he even had strength in Bricker's own bailiwick. Dewey men contended that the New York governor is still the leading man for the nomination despite his repeated assertion that he will not be a candidate. They believe Dewey would not decline a "draft" nomination in event of a deadlocked convention.

Others Discussed

Others who have been discussed for the Republican nomination are former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, now a lieutenant commander in the Navy, whose name will be entered in the Nebraska and possibly other western state primaries; Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Earl Warren of California, Rep. James W. Wadsworth of New York, and Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

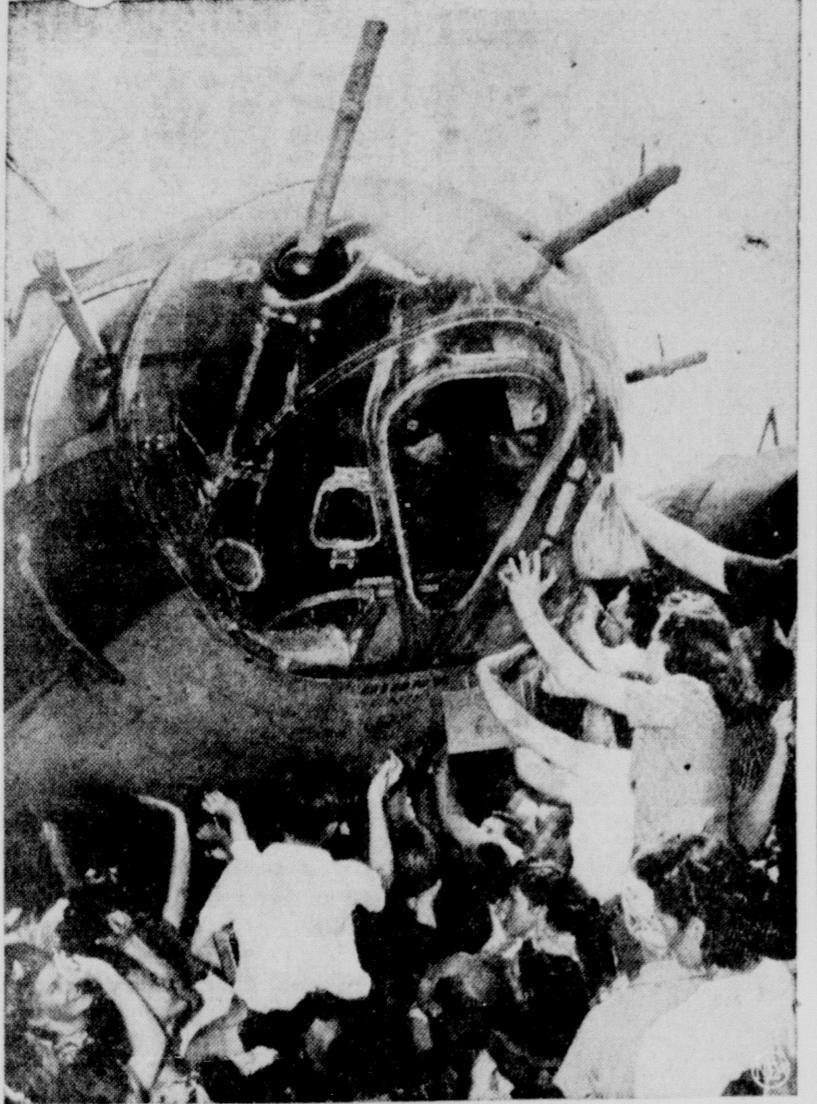

Three others besides President Roosevelt have been mentioned for the Democratic nomination, although most politicians feel now that the chief executive will be a fourth term candidate. The three are Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, put forward by Senator Johnson (D-Colo); Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who also has supporters booming him in Louisiana and South Carolina, and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

One of the first results of the Bricker announcement is expected to be an intensification of efforts on behalf of Bricker and Willkie to line up convention delegates in the south. Willkie has visited that area, but he has yet publicly to declare his candidacy.

Bricker's Statement

Bricker said present-day post-war planning "is not feasible because of the inefficiency of government. Tremendous building up of bureau

For Universal Service

New York, Nov. 11—(AP)—The United States must institute universal military service as an "essential policy in the future," says Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. Speaking at the 75th anniversary meeting of the New York Athletic Club last night, he declared "we must sacrifice one year of our life for the sake of our country. We must follow this absolute, vital and essential policy in the future."

Wants Congress to Rest

Washington, Nov. 11—(AP)—Dr. George W. Calver prescribed today a long period of rest and relaxation for what he called an "over-worked, nervous and underpaid" congress. If he had his way, the Capitol physician said, he'd order a recess until the first of the year, to let members go home for their annual respite.

Dr. Calver, who has looked after congressional health for 15 years, told a reporter "the average congressman worries more than anybody you ever saw away from the hill."

Miners Quit Work Again

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11—(AP)—Thousands of Pennsylvania's soft coal miners took part today in an Armistice Day work stoppage which operators said was a protest against a government ruling denying them time-and-one-half pay for holiday work. An order by Fuels Administrator Ickes on Tuesday ruled out "premium" holiday pay for the miners who had returned to the pits Monday after the government took over operation of the mines to end the nation's fourth general coal strike this year. A presidential directive issued earlier this year listed six holidays for which miners were to be paid time and one-half. Four holidays have been observed and only Thanksgiving and Christmas remain.

Tribute to Wilson

The Capital also paid tribute to the memory of the president during the first World War years—Woodrow Wilson—in services arranged at the Washington Cemetery.

In London, the few public ceremonies were brief without pageantry or oratory, and newspapers, subscribing to this as a practical measure, emphasized the urgency of smashing the enemy in the next year.

This Armistice Day finds some 10,000,000 Americans under arms in an Army and Navy that still is expanding. They are on duty in virtually every continent and sea around the world.

In contrast, on Armistice Day, 1918, 4,000,000 had been mobilized—and half were in Europe.

The intoxicating news of peace that came on Nov. 11, 1918, stalled the guns of a conflict that brought death to 8,538,000 men and wounded 21,219,000. Casualties for this world conflict will not be known exactly until after the new Armistice Day, but some estimates place the total already at 25,000,000.

In announcing the 1944 farm goals, which call for an all-time record agriculture production, the administrator did not name the crops and said that prices of most farm products are high enough to encourage maximum production.

Indicative of the farmers' intention to meet the heavy food and feed demands, record acreage goal of 380,000,000 acres was established after state meetings with farm representatives said Jones. This is an increase of 16,000,000 acres over this 1943. Marketing and acreage restrictions will be removed on all crops except tobacco.

Continuation and possible increases of subsidy payments for support prices would be required under the program outlined by the food chief.

House Military Group Chairman Gets Angry

Washington, Nov. 11—(AP)—Waxing wrath over inability to obtain final action on legislation to put pre-war fathers at the bottom of the draft list, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee accused the senate of "running out on us."

May is head of the house conferees named two weeks ago to attempt to work out a compromise with a senate committee.

The conferees met early this week but broke up in disagreement over how much authority should be given to Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director.

May said he would insist on another meeting late this week and emphasized that the house conferees would insist on retention of the principle that fathers be inducted last.

Some Ten Millions of Yankees Under Arms This Holiday

(By The Associated Press)

Formal celebrations of Armistice Day were abandoned for grimmer tasks at home and abroad today as the anniversary of the end of the World War was dimmed by the urgent need of getting on with the job of winning a far greater struggle.

For American fighting men it was a day of steady slugging at the enemy. For Americans at home it was, by government request, a day of uninterrupted industrial production.

King George VI of Britain sounded the keynote for the United Nations when he declared it was extra effort that counted.

Apparently fearful the down-trodden peoples of occupied Europe would seize the day for new outbreaks of sabotage, the Germans were reported to have tightened policing of all subjugated areas.

The Algiers radio urged workers in France to strike from the historic hour of 11 a. m. until noon in the factories where they are forced to turn out war goods for their conquerors.

In Washington, President Roosevelt arranged to place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Solier in traditional ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, but government offices, in contrast to the days of peace, ordered a full working day.

Tribute to Wilson

The Capital also paid tribute to the memory of the president during the first World War years—Woodrow Wilson—in services arranged at the Washington Cemetery.

settled at least 10,000 American sailors have lost their lives off Bougainville. A United States naval spokesman flatly denied the loss of a single United States warship in the Pacific in the last two weeks, saying all American naval losses in those waters have been announced.

Two American troopers were hit by Japanese bombs off Empress Augusta bay, but only one was damaged because the other was hit by a dud. Last week a Japanese torpedo tore through a PT boat without exploding.

Japanese reinforcements continued to pour from Truk to Rabaul, anchor of their southeast Asian defenses. Three convoys, presumably carrying supplies and troops, were attacked en route the first of this week and at least one 10,000-ton merchant vessel was sunk.

The fresh Russian gains presumably carried the Ukrainian armies closer than 40 miles from the rail center of Zhitomir, as reported by midnight by Moscow.

At that time, the Russians were 42 miles directly west of Kiev and lunging swiftly forward on a 70-mile front.

The German command acknowledged the Russians had made a "local dent" in a fresh attack northeast of the Crimean port of Kerch and told of attacks around Perekop on the narrow land bridge connecting the Crimea to the mainland.

The proportion of British war expenditure currently devoted to mutual aid is 10 per cent, the paper continued, adding "what we give to the United States as mutual aid in relation to our national income does not fall far short of what the United States gives to us as lend-lease in relation to their national income".

In summarizing assistance to others of the United States than the United States and Russia, the white paper reported that in a report to Congress on May 25 President Roosevelt said 12 per cent of the total United States war expenditure went for lend-lease.

The German communiqué also reported the Russians had made a "local dent" in a fresh attack northeast of the Crimean port of Kerch and told of attacks around Perekop on the narrow land bridge connecting the Crimea to the mainland.

Graham vs Lujack Saturday; Former Definitely on Spot

Irish-Wildcats Game is Billed as Duel of Great Passers

Chicago, Nov. 11—(AP)—That fellow on the spot is Otto Graham, 190-pound left halfback of the Northwestern Wildcats, who is nearing the close of a brilliant three year career as one of the greatest passers in Western Conference history.

Otto and his mates tangle with the nation's No. 1 touchdown machine, Notre Dame, Saturday at Evanston. He's on the spot because the clash, 23rd in a series dating back to '89, is being billed as a passing duel between him and Johnny Lujack, the freshman sensation who stepped right into Angelo Bertelli's shoes and found a perfect fit.

Frank Leahy's 18-year-old quarterback find will have a supporting cast which has rolled up a gain of 3,284 yards in its seven consecutive triumphs, topping the nation with an average of 279.1 yards per contest. In their march toward the national championship the Irish have piled up 287 points to their opponents' 31.

With the return of the ailing Juile Rykovich at halfback and last Saturday's unveiling of another fresh star, Bob Kelly, the Irish coast along with the greatest collection of ball carriers in the country.

Of course, there'll be 10 other fellows helping Graham. It is extremely doubtful, however, that their best will be good enough. Graham is considered Northwestern's only offensive threat following the transfer of Navy's trainees Herman Frickey and Don Buffmire.

Leading the Purple to five victories in six games, Graham sports a season passing record of 25 completions in 49 efforts, a pace even faster than he set last year in connecting with 88 of 182 aerials for a gain of 1,092 yards.

From Other Grid Camps

Notes from other midwest football camps:

Preparing for their game with Wisconsin Saturday, Michigan whipped through a snappy drill despite snow and cold. Still nursing an injured shoulder, Elroy Hirsch was on the sidelines and coach Fritz Crisler groomed Bob Nussbaumer as a possible starting replacement....

Wisconsin scrimmaged on a muddy field as coach Harry Stuhldreher presented a revised backfield. It was comprised of Hugo Vogt at quarterback, John Kuenzler at full, Don Kindt at right half and Larry Heinz and Art Robertson alternating at left half....

At Bloomington, coach Bo McMillin said he'd have five or six new men in the starting lineup against Great Lakes.... The Sailors worked both on their own passing game and on a defense against the deadly aerials of Bob Hoernschmeyer....

The Iowa Hawkeyes scrimmaged for the second straight day in their tuneup for Minnesota, fully explains this treatment—free—at while the Gophers practiced defensive formations in their field-house because of the weather.

Passing was given special attention by coach Paul Brown of Ohio who had five men practicing tosses for use against Illinois.... The Illini reported the loss of reserve quarterback Beryl White, who left the team for Army duty.

At Iowa City the Seahawks devoted their session to offensive drills while their Saturday opponents, Camp Grant, stressed defense—Idle this week, the Purple Boilermakers had a light scrimmage to improve timing and blocking.

W. S. C. S.

The W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church met on Thursday, Nov. 4, with Miss Elizabeth Doeden, at the F. H. Hause home. There was a large attendance of members and several visitors. The meeting opened with devotions, led by Mrs. Gusta Bratton. The regular business session followed. Mrs. Margery Howard gave an interesting report of the Joliet-Dixon district W. S. C. S. convention held recently in Rochelle. As usual at such meetings, the program was full of interesting reports and plans for future work. The district treasurer reported that 18 societies in the district, one of them being that of the Franklin Grove church, had already met their full financial pledge for the year ending December 31. She also reported among special gifts that of the local society toward the George O. Robinson school for girls in Puerto Rico. Fine missionary addresses were a part of the program.

Circles No. 2 and No. 3 each turned in their quota of $50 to the treasurer, Mrs. Mattie Merefield. Mrs. Blanche Durkes, president, explained the aims of the efficiency goal shown on the poster, "Seven Keys to Progress". Most of the goals have been met or will be by the end of the year.

Plans were discussed for the work of the new year beginning January 1st, much of which is now in the hands of committees. Mrs. Adeline Helmershausen had a beautiful selection of Christmas cards and plaques, and reminded all that it will be difficult to fill orders that come in too near the date of Christmas.

The program for the day was presented by Mrs. Hannah Myers, on the topic "The Belgian Congo of Africa". She gave interesting facts concerning the geography, history, and present-day needs and conditions of this section of the "dark continent", showing that this is one of the many fields in the world today where there is need of Christian education and service.

Following the program the hostess and her committee served delightful refreshments. While all were eating, Mrs. Ruth Bell gave an entertaining report of the work of her committee in the recent cleaning of the church. This was interspersed with little rhyme, concerning the problems they met and conquered, and was much enjoyed. A vote of thanks was given the committee for their work, also to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bratton for supplying flowers for the church during the growing season.
